

Tribute to ACS

The American Institute of Physics extends its greetings and felicitations to the American Chemical Society on the occasion of the celebration of its centennial. For the last century the Society has successfully focused the efforts of the chemistry community in furthering education, encouraging scholarly research, fostering its application and pioneering in the dissemination of its results and applications, this to the benefit of all. The Institute congratulates the Society and sends its good wishes for a second productive century of effort and progress for the good of the whole nation.
